

I Can Infer

You hear the mailbox close and the dog starts barking, going insane
You were in the other room and didn't see it, but you figure that the mail came But how did you know, if no one told you so,
and you didn't see it go down?
You might not have the proof, but you have the clues,
and you used them to figure it out

When you don't have all the information, but you've got enough to take a guess (woo-oo-oooo-oo)
You take what you know,
and fill in the missing pieces,
and you make an inference
Don't know for sure, but I can infer (infer)
if the clues make sense
Don't know for sure, but I can infer
(infer)
based on the evidence

Zoe gets home from school at 4:30, and her mom gets off work at 5:00
When the bus pulls up and Zoe sees her house, she can tell the lights are all off inside
So what can she infer?
Is her mom home from work?
I think the answer is no

Cause it's not yet 5 o'clock, and all the lights are off, she infers her mom isn't home

When you don't have all the information, but you
got enough to take a guess

(woo-oo-oooo-oo)
You take what you know,
and fill in the missing pieces,
